PROMOTERS BEGIN TO SEE TREND OF TIMES

By J. W. MARCHBANK

I ran across this sentence in the catalogue of the yearling sale recently held in Sydney that is significant of the hold the sport of racing has on the people in the southern hemisphere:

"Fernery is a winner in the country districts of New South Wales."

A parallel would be calling attention to the promise of an offering at a sale at Tanforan in this wise:

"He is a full brother to a winner at tracks in the interior of the state."

The difference comes in the circumstance so small importance has been directed toward the meetings outside of the metropolitan districts in California it would not be much of a boost to say a horse had been successful at any of the sessions on the minor circuit. Breeding has expanded so little since the legalization of wagering three years ago "neighborhood" sport has not grown up the way it should.

In most countries racing on the major and minor circuits are mutually helpful. Dividend-mad promoters have been a prime factor in retarding the development of breeding and sport in the smaller communities in this state. Stories broadcast to the four quarters of the earth about the millions wagered on the races at the tracks in metropolitan areas have worked to the detriment of racing; instead of measures having been adopted to place the accent where it belongs—on the horses themselves, their antecedents and surroundings—matters have drifted along to a sorry pass.

But there will be an awakening, in fact, there has been. Finally realizing there are other things besides making money in racing the powers that be are reported to be bending every effort to encourage "neighborhood" meetings in all sections of the state. Some of the funds going from the big tracks to the state will be used in the years to come in building up a strong minor circuit.

PECULIAR AUTO ACCIDENT HURTS CHILD AT PLAY

Brake Becomes Loosened And Car Runs Away And Breaks Boy's Leg

Little Raymond Lorenzi, five and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lorenzi of Willits street, was the victim of a strange auto accident which occurred in front of his home, Sunday evening at about 6 o'clock.

The lad's father had his car parked in front of the family home, where the little fellow was playing on the sidewalk. The emergency brake became loosened and the car started to move; the impact of the run-away car threw the little fellow down and the machine passed over him, breaking his leg.

The boy was removed to the Villa Hospital for treatment.

At an Eagle Scout and Quartermaster Court of Honor, held in the Elk's Auditorium on Polk street in San Francisco, Tuesday evening of this week, Daly City had the honor of inducting the largest class of the evening, which consisted of seven members—five boys and two men. MAYBE NOT SO GOOD AS LOOKS

New Mayor Receives Token From Fire Chief On His Selection

At Monday evening's council meeting a basket of flowers was presented to the newly selected mayor in congratulations. The card accompanying the flowers bore the names of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Chesney.

Mr. Chesney is the present chief of the Daly City Fire Department.

The following letter has come into the possession of The Record. It was mailed under the postmark of April 8, 1936.

Here it is verbatim, punctuation and all:

"Dear Friend:
"I would like you to vote April 14th for Dr. Callen, and A. J. Gaggreo, both are business men of our city. Dr. Callen, is in business at the top of the hill, and A. J. Gaggreo is in the Southern end of our city, this end of the city is not now represented on the City Council, I hope you help to elect both of them as they are very fine men, to be at the head of our City
"Yours Truly
"Mrs. A. P. Chesney"

FOREIGN WARS VETS PREPARING FOR ENCAMPMENT

Will Give Daly City Much Advertising At Convention

The members of the degree team from Old Glory Post 2044, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are practicing diligently to prepare themselves for competition at the Department convention to be held in San Bernardino, June 14 to 18. This is one of the best teams in the state and no doubt will be in the competition to the last.

The Ladies Auxiliary drill team is practicing every week in preparation for their competition in drill at the encampment. Last year this team placed second to the department champions and they are going out this year to win.

Daly City will be, in our opinion, the best represented city at the convention. With the two teams now hard at work and the delegates getting lined up, it is estimated that about 50 members will be on hand. And when this gang gets going everyone knows that Daly City is around.

This year additional publicity for Daly City will be obtained. The Post has endorsed and is working at present, laying the foundation for a strong battle to elect Comrade Fred Linser to Department Junior Commander, and we believe that the opportunity is here to obtain this election. With Comrade Linser's election, a great deal of attention will be drawn to Old Glory Post and Daly City.

Comrade R. F. Brulez is in the race for Council of Administration member, Sixth District, comprising the counties of San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey.

The annual picnic is scheduled for Sunday, July 26, and elaborate plans are being made to make this the biggest and best of the year.

COUNTY ROAD DEPARTMENT WILL GIVE BARBECUE

Big Time Promised At Third Annual Affair At Half Moon Bay

The third annual barbecue and picnic of the San Mateo County Road Department will be held at the Chamarita Grounds at Half Moon Bay, next Sunday, May 3.

Many county officials and other prominent citizens from all parts of the county will attend this delightful affair.

The festivities start at ten o'clock in the morning and will continue until late in the evening. There will be a tug-of-war, baseball and athletic contests of every kind for the young and old alike, with valuable prizes for the winners, as well as singing, dancing, entertainment, etc., in the beautiful dance pavilion.

A giant barbecue pit is being built on the grounds, where the choicest beef parts, with all the trimmings (and prepared by the expert hands of the famous Daneri Brothers) will be served free to all visitors, starting at 12:30 p. m.

There will be music for dancing and all who attend are assured a good time.

STORMY SESSION AT MONDAY MEETING OF DALY CITY COUNCIL

The appointment of a new chief of police in the person of A. J. Dalton, a former councilman of alleged shady reputation, by the majority three of the Council, aroused the indignation of some 450 citizens who had gathered to witness the proceedings. Councilmen Cavagnaro and Fahey voted against the appointment.

Again there was a storm of protest from the audience when the same three councilmen attempted to railroad the appointment of J. W. Coleberd of South San Francisco as city attorney. Councilmen Fahey and Cavagnaro also opposed this appointment.

As soon as the Council was called to order in the council chambers a motion was made to adjourn to the upstairs auditorium, as it was evident that only a small percentage of those present could be accommodated downstairs.

After reading of the minutes, communications were called for.

A letter of resignation from John F. Doyle, chief of police, was read and continued until later in the meeting. When the matter again came up for consideration the resignation was accepted and Doyle was given rating as a patrolman, in accordance with his request stated in his letter of resignation.

Mrs. Margaret Pettigrew applied for a clerical position in the Water Department. Taken under consideration.

Eaton & Smith were granted extension of time for completion of work on Citrus avenue and adjoining streets.

The Peninsula Division of the California League of Municipalities invited members of the council to attend a meeting to be held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, May 21.

J. E. McCurdy tendered his resignation by letter, to take effect immediately.

Councilmen Fahey and Cavagnaro stated they had no knowledge of the resignation before this time, although the same was dated Friday, April 24, and it is understood to have been known to Mayor Selmi on Thursday of last week.

Citizens are now wondering why the two first named members of the council had not been informed that this resignation had been submitted.

Possibly so that the other three members could "get away" with their program of appointing a city attorney without previous consultation with their fellow members.

This view seems logical, inasmuch as an attempt was made to railroad into the office J. W. Coleberd, whom the mayor had on hand to act as temporary attorney.

The matter of stop signs on Hillcrest drive and San Diego and indistinct street signs was referred to the incoming street committee. Also the removal of weeds from sidewalks at various points.

The matter of application for gas and electrical franchises by the P. G. & E. Co., was referred to the city attorney and city engineer.

At this juncture the resignation of Police Chief Doyle was accepted and Councilman Sundermann nominated A. J. Dalton for the position.

Again Councilmen Fahey and Cavagnaro protested, stating they had not sufficient time to consider such an appointment.

Numerous citizens in the audience arose and strongly protested any such action, some stating that this appointment would be in bad taste and obnoxious to the majority of the residents of this city.

Threats of recall of the three "yes men" on the council were freely made. However, despite these protests, the "big three," Councilmen Sunder-

JEFFERSON HIGH ACTORS IN DRAMA FESTIVAL TONIGHT

This year for the first time, the Dramatics Club of Jefferson Union High School has entered the drama festival of the Peninsula Center of the California Drama Teachers Association. Three one-act plays were presented, Monday evening, at the auditorium of the San Mateo Junior College by the San Mateo High School, Sequoia Union High School and the junior college. Tonight, at the same place, one-act plays will be presented by Burlingame High School, South San Francisco High School and Jefferson Union High School, in that order. The program begins at 8:15 and late comers are admitted only between plays.

"Gas," by Frederick J. Pohl, is the selection of the Jefferson Players. It portrays the effects of a poison gas attack on a great city, as it affects one family gathered on the eighth floor of a hotel in a private dining room for a farewell dinner to the son and prospective son in law, who are to report for duty the next day for service in a war which has just been declared.

Rita Sadler stars as the mother, with Gerald Phillips playing the part of the father. Dorothy Des Saules has the daughter's part, while Henry Biggio portrays the son, and Dale Hiltz plays the boy friend, and Helyn Bull fills the role of the waitress. Gardner Girdler is stage and property manager and David L. Greene has directed the play. Friends of the school, and of these young people in particular, will be amply rewarded if they make the trip to San Mateo to witness this play and those presented by the other schools. Burlingame High School is presenting "The Bride of the Rain God," written by a student of that school around the tradition of sacrifices made by the ancient Mayans of Yucatan.

"The Comedie of Pierre Patelin," a fourteenth century French farce, is being presented by the South San Francisco High School. Last night the San Mateo Junior College presented "The Wonder Hat," San Mateo High School presented "Finders Keepers," and Sequoia Union High School presented "Aria da Capo."

DECLARE MAY DAY CIVIC CELEBRATION

Festival To Be Held At The Jefferson Union High School On Saturday

At the council meeting in the City Hall, Monday evening, May Day was declared a civic affair. Remi Sanders and George Augustine were appointed to represent the schools, and Ed Cavagnaro, the city council. A wonderful program has been arranged by Miss Rose and her assistants.

This festival is an affair that will always be anticipated each spring by everyone in Daly City.

Baby Jane Hopman is to be the first Queen of the May.

Let's all be out on the green to see the nymph-like dancers in their colorful regalia with Dame Nature doing her part in furnishing a suitable setting.

The date, Saturday, May 2 at 2 p.m.

KEEP HOME FIRES BURNING IN TOWN

A host of friends and relatives gathered at the Good Samaritan Church, 25th and Potrero, to witness the marriage of Miss C. Hay and Leslie C. Village. Reverend Turner, pastor of the church performed the ceremony.

The sanctuary was made beautiful with lilies forming an appropriate setting for the bride in white satin and veil, carrying a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mary Sooter as maid of honor looked lovely in pink as did Sybil Riddle and Doris Neeman in yellow, accessories and bouquets to match.

Ralph Riches was best man and the ushers were Gordon Turbitt and Fred Hunter.

At the Hotel Bellevue, a reception followed. Fifty-eight guests were served and entertained with singing and dancing.

The couple will make their home in Daly City, and we wish them many years of happiness in this community.

CITY COUNCIL HAS STORMY SLEDDING MONDAY EVENING

People Aroused By Naming Of New Police Chief And Attempt To Railroad In City Attorney.

mann, Twosten and Selmi, voted in favor of the appointment. Fahey and Cavagnaro voted against its ratification.

A motion failed to appoint Ellis C. Johnson as city judge, because it was withdrawn after a stormy protest from citizens in the audience.

Then an attempt was made to railroad through the appointment of J. W. Coleberd of South San Francisco as city attorney. However, after a great demonstration by citizens in the audience the matter was laid over until the next regular meeting.

The same course was pursued in the matter of appointment of a city engineer.

Dr. Shazoin was reappointed city health officer. George Riddell was reappointed city plumbing inspector.

Appointment of a building and electrical inspector was laid over till the next regular meeting.

W. A. Banfield was appointed as pound master by a three to two vote.

Councilman Cavagnaro moved that the Police Commission make a study of the matter of establishing "call in" boxes throughout the city so that policemen may report to headquarters from various points and at stated times. This was asked in order to create a more efficient police department and as a check on the men in the department to see that they are performing their duty.

Cavagnaro also asked that the chief of police be instructed to have the policemen in his department patrol a definite "beat" or route, throughout the city, and that this be done immediately and reported to the City Council at its next regular meeting, indicating the action taken, the routes assigned and other details.

On motion of Councilman Cavagnaro it was ordered that every motor vehicle owned by the city be properly identified by having painted thereon an insignia designating the department to which said motor vehicle was assigned. Also that said insignia shall be represented by the letters "D. C. P. D.," the letters to be not less than four inches in height, for all Police Department cars. Water Department vehicles to be marked "D. C. W. D.," in the same height letters, for all Water Department vehicles. It was ordered that these insignia be painted on both sides of the vehicles.

A motion requiring a detailed report of expenditures to be filed with the city clerk on the third Monday of each month by all city departments was unanimously adopted.

By action of the council the chief of police is required to secure consent of the Police Commission before issuing police badges to any citizen.

Following are the new committees named for the ensuing term:

Building—Selmi, Fahey, Cavagnaro
City Planning—Fahey, Sundermann, Twosten.

SAME OLD STORY IN SAME OLD WAY---NO CHANGE IN METHODS

The departure of the former dictator from the City Council seems to have made no difference in the method of conducting the people's business.

There remains a member, who is now presiding officer of the Council, who seems able to take the same dictation now as he did when the physical presence was there.

Monday evening of this week, at the regular meeting of the City Council, the majority three—Selmi, Sundermann and Twosten, who still hold office by virtue of the fact that their terms have not expired—were blocked in their efforts to railroad into office Attorney Colberd as city attorney, an effort will again be made at a time when it is hoped a large number of our citizens will be at their employment and therefore cannot attend the council session. The light of day seems to fit the dark plots better.

Does the leopard change his spots? Listen to the following answer:

Under date of April 30, 1936, Paul G. Selmi, newly selected mayor of Daly City, has issued a call for a special meeting of the Council, stating that it is called:

"For the purpose of rescinding the motion, adopted by said City Council at the meeting thereof held on the 27th day of April, 1936, postponing action on the appointment of a city attorney for two weeks and also for the purpose of considering and acting upon the question of appointing a city attorney for a period of six months (Julius is going away today for five months), and also for the purpose of approving the official bond of any elective or appointed officer of said city which may be presented to said City Council for approval at said time and place."

This meeting is scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning, today, FRIDAY, MAY 1. This hour undoubtedly was selected in the hope that there might not be as many citizens present as spectators as at the regular meeting.

Although the people of Daly City, by a large majority at the polls on April 14, stated emphatically that they did not want a continuance of the questionable methods of conducting the city's business which have obtained for a long period of years, the shadow will not down, and we are confronted with a new oligarchy which refuses absolutely to heed the expressed mandate of constituents, but prefers, instead, to take private dictation.

WHAT SHALL THE ANSWER BE?

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL IS PLAIN!

"Take it from 2,500,000 of us

... that
V-8 Feeling makes a world
of difference!"

ONE of the lowest priced and most economical cars in the world today stands in a class by itself for sheer performance and driving pleasure. Over two and a half million American motorists have swung to it in less than four years. Over one million chose it in 1935 alone.

That car is the Ford V-8. Now we urge you to drive this great new 1936 Ford V-8 before you decide on any car at any price. We urge you to know for yourself the "feel" of Ford V-8 engine performance—the almost effortless ease of handling—the remarkable stability under all road conditions—the true fine-car riding comfort—which have "taken hold" so convincingly with the hardest-buying audience that ever tested America's cars.

Ask your Ford Dealer for a car to try. You don't really know a Ford V-8 until you drive one. And you can't judge modern car values until you know the Ford V-8!

LIABILITY FOR ACTS OF MINORS DRIVING AUTOS

Responsibility for damage, injury or death caused by the act of a minor driver is clearly defined in California law, say experts. That responsibility rests upon the one who signs the application for the minor's driving license, whether parent, guardian or anyone else having custody, and in some instances the employer of a minor. A statement by the motorists organization reviewing the subject emphasizes the following:

Every time a minor drives he should realize that he is carrying an obligation to drive safely, not only for his personal welfare, but in the interests of whoever may have signed his application for a driver's license. Liability rests upon the one who has signed. It exists regardless of whether or not the minor is accompanied by parent or guardian at the time of the accident. It exists even if the minor is driving a car not owned by the parent or guardian, and even if he is driving without their knowledge.

Liability can not be avoided by permitting a minor to drive without a license. In that case the liability is not only the same, but both the minor and his parent or guardian are violating the law, the minor for driving without a license and those having custody for permitting him to do so.

Where a minor's employment requires him to drive it is provided that the employer may sign the license application and thereby assume the liability that would otherwise be assumed by parent or guardian. Such a license restricts the minor to driving only as required by his work, and the liability of the employer applies only to driving by the minor within the scope of his employment, unless the employer signs for an unrestricted license.

Besides civil responsibilities in the case of minor drivers, provision is made for more prompt revocation of their licenses than in the case of adults. The Department of Motor Vehicles is required to revoke licenses of minors who drive under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs; who drive recklessly; who fail to stop and give aid and identify themselves in case of accident; or who exceed the speed limit twice within a period of six months.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK

Members of humane societies throughout the United States are preparing for the observation of Be Kind To Animals Week, April 19 to 25, 1936, with Humane Sunday on April 19. Committees have been named in each city and the campaign is well under way to focus public attention upon humane work during that time.

Matthew McCurrie, secretary of the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has made an appeal to clergymen of all denominations in northern California to preach sermons on the subject of kindness to animals on Sunday, April 19, and announced that material for the preparation of sermons would be furnished by the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to any clergymen upon receipt of a post card at its office, 2500 Sixteenth street, San Francisco, Cal.

The movement to observe one week each year as Be Kind To Animals Week is fostered by the American Humane Association, the national federation of humane societies, at Albany New York, and the association is making unusual efforts to have the celebration universal this year.

The committee for northern California is composed of 19 members, each of whom is directing the work in their locality. All are anxious to communicate with any one willing to help in the work.

NEW BLOWOUT TAKE AVAILABLE ON CHRYSLERS

Manager Of Local Dealer Company Says Factors Are Eliminated

Pioneering another safety development, the Chrysler Corporation has announced that the new "Lifeguard" tube recently perfected by the Goodrich Tire and Rubber Company is now available in all Chrysler motor cars.

The manager of the Mission Auto Company, Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, stated that Chrysler engineers recently vividly demonstrated the effectiveness of the new tube by mechanically blowing out the tires of cars speeding along a highway. The cars equipped with ordinary tubes swerved and careened dangerously, while the "Lifeguard" equipped ones proceeded smoothly down the track to an easy stop.

"The Goodyear 'Lifeguard' tube does not prevent blowouts... but it does make them harmless," the manager said. "Regardless of extravagant claims, there is no such thing as a blowout-proof tire today, due to operating factors beyond the manufacturers' control, but this new development makes the blowout danger-proof, tire company engineers claim."

"The 'Lifeguard' tube consists of a heavy tube with a second tube built inside—in reality, twin tubes, one inside the other, both inflated by the same valve. The air passes from the inner tube to the outer tube through one small vent. Should the tire become weakened or damaged enough to cause a blowout, only the outer tube 'blows.' The inner tube remains inflated for one-half to three-quarters of a mile, enabling the driver to hold the car on the road and bring it to a safe stop. The new tube converts a blowout into a slow leak."

"This safety factor which is the result of years of experimentation on the part of Goodyear and Chrysler engineers, takes its place with steel bodies, hydraulic brakes and safety glass as Chrysler contributions to motoring safety."

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

Burners should be kept clean for the sake of safety and efficiency, and should be boiled occasionally in a strong solution of lye or washing soda and water. Oil stoves should never be filled near an open flame light and are best attended to during the daytime.

Nearby woodwork should be protected with sheet metal and asbestos in the manner already mentioned in connection with other types of heating and cooking apparatus.

The supply of kerosene should be stored in an outer shed, if possible, particularly if more than a gallon is kept on hand at a time.

Do not let the floor become soaked with oil.

The portable heater is an undoubted convenience, but it presents a definite hazard, largely because of its portability. Not being secured in place it is easily overturned and in numerous instances serious injuries by burning have resulted from weak spring catches securing the upper cylinder to the lower section.

"STOP SIGN" LOGIC

Next time you are indignant at having to stop at a "Stop" sign, remember what one of the country's foremost traffic commentators once said of this traffic signal. His comment was: "It is a monument to the ignorance of a human being who needs to be told that it is dangerous to wander carelessly into the thick of traffic on a main highway."

THE SAME RUTHLESS DICTATORSHIP

That there will be no change under the new setup in the City Council from the old dictatorship was evidenced at last Monday evening's session and at the caucus meeting called for last Thursday evening.

The newly elected members, Councilmen Cavagnaro and Fahey, showed their willingness to obey the wishes of the electors and proceed with a "clean up" of the City Hall oligarchy.

However, there still remain three of the old "Yes Men" and supporters of the departed dictator, and his shadow still hovers behind their chairs. This presence is and will remain a sinister menace to harmony on the council as long as any of the old regime of "rubber stamp" councilmen remain in office.

The people, by their ballots at the recent city election, made demand on the City Council for a "clean up" and reorganization of Daly City's misrepresentation at the City Hall. Two of our councilmen, Fahey and Cavagnaro, are desirous of obeying the mandate of the people, and are only blocked in this laudable desire by the arbitrary actions of the old order of "Three Yes Men."

NEW CLUB WINS IN FIRST START

Juniors Play At Jefferson Field Sunday

The Daly City Tanforan Juniors, newly organized ball club managed by Eddie White, will be out for revenge when they meet the Spanish A. C. Sunday on the high school grounds at 2:30 p. m. The opposition holds a previous 9-2 decision when the Juniors were playing under the name of the Daly City A. C. However, White has bolstered up his outfit with several new players, and the Juniors are favorites to win.

Playing their first game under new colors last Sunday the Tanforan Juniors broke the ice with a 5-2 victory over the Mission Reds.

Mo Plansky, playing the second base spot after a long absence, celebrated his return to action with two hits. Lanky Tom Long poked out a home run and Joe Lucia got a double. Altogether the Juniors got 10 hits from Dunne, Mission Red Hurler.

Sammy Lucia went the whole route for the locals, allowing eight safe blows.

There were several new faces on the field. Harry Krohn will take over the catcher's position while White has moved Kondeff to centerfield.

Bill Schmidt, another newcomer, looked good at shortstop, getting two hits for four tries. Dave Johnston has been moved from short to third base.

MILLIONS EXPENDED TO DEFEAT ROOSEVELT

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

It is well to know the names of organizations in the fore-front in obstructing the wonderful work being done by President Roosevelt. It is noteworthy that a Senate committee, the target for an attack of unbridled virulence by a newspaper publisher, has found that the General Motors and duPont interests consider it worth many thousands of dollars to keep in existence such a group as the so-called American Liberty League (save the mark), which wages war on all the liberal measures of the President to bring some little justice to the "average" man, such as you and myself.

The Senate committee, headed by Senator Black of Alabama, has shown that the men who own the Liberty League are also owners of the Crusaders, the Farmers' Independence Council, the Sentinels of the Republic, the American Veterans' Association, the Minute Men and Women of Today, the National Civic Federation, the Women Investors of America, and the League for Industrial Rights.

Contributors to the groups include Alfred P. Sloan, E. F. Hutton, Irene duPont, Lammot duPont, the Heinzes, Swifts, Armour, G. H. Houston, J. H. Pew, and E. T. Weir.

As the President himself has often pointed out, what is known as "big business" is unalterably against his humanitarian policies. That does not mean, however, that the rank and file of men of affairs, with no connections with the anti-liberal groups, are not heart and soul for the great leader.

No economist will deny wealth is the creation of labor, so, from one point of view, it is the more amazing many men of wealth, are so short-sighted as to be at sword's point at all times with men who labor, either with brain or brawn. President Roosevelt is on the side of the worker and that is why the men of wealth are so fussed up. It is estimated millions of dollars have been contributed by large employers to the anti-Roosevelt groups enumerated in former paragraphs.

Interesting testimony has been given in the inquiry of the Black committee as to methods employed in attempts to discredit the Roosevelt administration in the South. Members of an organization calling itself the "Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution" admitted the distribution through the South of pictures showing Mrs. Roosevelt entering a meeting accompanied by two Negroes. The pictures were found on the seats of delegates at the so-called Jeffersonian Grass Roots convention in Georgia.

The San Francisco News says in an editorial in this connection:

"Shocking was the disclosure by Vance Muse, tall Texan, as to the gentlemen who have been financing such methods of upholding the constitution. Among the contributors were John J. Raskob and Pierre du Pont, each for $5000. That famous

New York Bourbon, Ogden Mills, donated $100 to the cause. Frank B. Kellogg shelled out $50. Our old friends H. C. Hopson of Associated Gas & Electric added his mite, so did Hearst's general counsel, John Francis Neylan. Steel, auto, oil and power tycoons chipped in what they could afford.

"These silk-hatted angels of the Georgia adventure in race prejudice apparently are on the spot for most any kind of organization that presents a blue print on how to stop Roosevelt.

"Considering what they are getting for their good hard cash one is constrained to remark that some people and their money are soon parted or that one is born every minute."

The President put himself on record the other night on the radio that his social philosophy, also his political, is lower taxes and fewer unemployed. You can't beat that.

SILENCING THE SPARE

Spare tires carried in fender wells, of which there are so many in spite of the fact that the practice now is recognized as bad streamlining, need not get nosy with time.

The average mechanic can work wonders in silencing them with small, inconspicuous rubber inserts cut from discarded inner tubes. Give him a chance if your spare or spares, develop annoying noises.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mather Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, May 3, on the subject "Everlasting Punishment."

The Golden Text will be: "There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked" (Isaiah 48:22). Bible selections will include the following passage from Rev. 12: 7, 9: "And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels. . . . And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "The great red dragon symbolizes a lie,—the belief that substance, life, and intelligence can be material. This dragon stands for the sum total of human error. . . . The Revelator lifts the veil from this embodiment of all evil, and beholds its awful character; but he also sees the nothingness of evil and the allness of God" (p. 563).

Unbeaten Valley Outfit Looms As Title Grabber

Just where the Daly City Tanforan ball club will go in State League competition will be decided Sunday, when the local aggregation clashes with the undefeated Fresno Tigers at the Raisin City.

Last week the Fresnoans staged a last inning rally to beat out the Modesto Reds, 8-5, and it will be recalled that the Tanfos did the same thing on the opening day of the circuit.

TANFOS CAN WIN

The Tigers, managed by Art Ramage, have beaten everything that came their way, and are reigning favorites to cop championship honors, but Manager Ray Volkman and his boys refuse to sell themselves short and will play to win.

Bill Sturtevant, big right handed hurler, seems to be getting better as he goes along. He has allowed fewer hits each time on the mound, giving 9, 6, and 5 in four respective contests. If the trend continues, the Tigers won't get more than four safe blows Sunday.

Ace Michaels, Tiger moundsman, will probably take up the pitching duties against the locals. Foy Frazier, former Seal outfielder, is heralded as a dangerous batsman by the Fresnoans, as is Metzler. These two broke up the game against Modesto last week.

TIRE SOME TRIP

In order to win the Tanforan ball hawks will have to knock out plenty of base hits, for the Fresno bunch are a high scoring club. However, it will be doubly hard on the locals, for they should be a little tired after the long 180-mile trek to the valley city. But they are a fighting club, and seem to win the ones in which they are the under dogs.

Volkman will probably start off with last week's lineup, although Hannan may possibly play. Jack Gertsenberg, who hasn't started a game in the State loop, and outfielder De Felippo, who hasn't played at all so far, may break into the lineup if the regulars fail to get their hits.

FEDERAL ROAD AID NEED INCREASED BY RAVAGES OF WINTER

Storms of one of the worst winters in years have worked havoc with highways in many sections of the country and have provided another strong argument for enactment of measures pending in Congress for continuance of federal aid to states for highway purposes.

Unprecedented damage has been caused to highways throughout the country this winter. Few sections of the United States have been altogether immune from the effects of the unusually severe winter and extensive repairs on many major arteries will be necessary before they can be traveled in safety. It would be difficult to put a definite money estimate on the damage to roads resulting from the past winter, but certainly it will run into a high figure, probably adding some $50,000,000 to the road maintenance bill confronting the states.

JEFFERSON HIGH WINS AGAIN 10-0

Burlingame Nine Gets But Two Hits Friday

Letting down the Burlingame High School tossers with two scratch hits, Bill Straussburger led his Jefferson high teammates to an overwhelming 10-0 Friday at the peninsula diamond.

Coach Al Biggs' boys started off with three runs in the second inning, and from then on had matters their own way. Flashy George Ragghianti, besides playing his usual stellar game at third base, came through with a home run to help his team along; while Bill Elder, fleet outfielder, contributed a home run and a triple. Other sluggers for Jefferson were Harry Rose, Paul Ragghianti and Howard Petersen.

SAN JOSE WINS

Meanwhile San Jose High put the skids under the championship hopes of San Mateo, winning by a lopsided 15-2 score.

The game marked the fifth consecutive victory scored by Jefferson over Burlingame in five years time. A Biggs coached nine has lost to the peninsula preps only once.

HALFMOON UNKNOWN

Yesterday the Jefferson nine traveled to Half Moon Bay to engage the artichoke pickers in another P. A. L. conflict. The Record went to press before results were determined, but the Indians expected no easy touch from the coast outfit. San Jose, strongest team on the peninsula, has previously defeated both teams in 13-inning battles, beating the Halfmoons 5-3 and nosing out the Indians, 2-1.

Unless South City wins from the Joseans in their forthcoming tussle, the Daly City nine cannot hope for a piece of the title they are defending from last year. Should South City win the league lead would go into a three way tie, with South City, San Jose and Jefferson sharing honors.

SANTA CRUZ NINE BLANKS DALY CITY

Sturtevant Pitches Five Hit Game But Loses, 1-0

Scoring one of the biggest upsets in the State League, the Santa Cruz Padres took advantage of a break in the sixth inning to beat the Daly City Tanforans, 1 to 0, Sunday at the surf city, when Marriot, Padre third sacker, crossed the plate on a wild pitch by Bill Sturtevant.

CANT HIT OLSEN

The Tanfos, potentially a strong hitting club, were able to collect but four safe bingles from the luke-warm offerings of Joe Olsen, Santa Cruz moundsman, while Sturtevant allowed five hits. Sensational support by Olsen's teammates kept him out of the hole.

In the ninth inning Mickey Hannan, lame back and all, went in to pinch hit for Second Baseman Killilea and slapped out the cleanest hit of the day, a single. Manager Ray Volkman sent Jack Gertsenberg to run the bases for Hannan, and Gertsenberg promptly stole second base. Vasquez was out, and Paul Kellman came through with a liner between first and second. It looked like a hit, but First Baseman Paynter of the Padres jumped up and came down with the ball in his mitt, throwing to second to double Gertsenberg and end the game.

WHAT! NO DOUGH?

It was the first time the Daly City outfit has been blanked in the league, and it looks like they could use a little batting practice—they'll need it Sunday at Fresno.

The two-gun hitting of "Tex" Petrocchi and Johnny Burke was sadly missing Sunday and the only bright spot came in the eighth inning, when Lou Palmieri scooped a sizzling drive out of the dirt at third base to throw out Pitcher Olsen.

DRY VACUUM TANK

When a motor fails to start the reason is sometimes found to be a dry vacuum tank, due possibly to gasoline leakage from the carburetor while the car is standing. Ordinarily, cranking with throttle closed and ignition switch off will serve to refill the vacuum tank. Opening the throttle during this process tends to reduce the necessary vacuum.

SYNOPSIS

The Duke, Barry Gilbert, likable youth of twenty-three, jobless and broke, enters an unoccupied summer home in Southampton, seeking shelter from a storm. He makes himself at home, dozing at the fireplace, he is startled by the arrival of a butler, Willette, and a chauffeur, Evans. He learns that the son of the owner of the house, Jack Ridder, whom the servants had never seen, is expected. He decides to bluff it out. His supposed parents have left for Germany. Next morning he is given a letter for his "mother." He opens it and finds a message from the real Jack, saying he could not come, and returning a hundred-dollar bill. The boy's father had pensioned him into obscurity. Barry pockets the money, intending to return it later. He orders Evans to take him to Montauk, intending to disappear there. On the way he meets Judge Hambridge and his daughter, Patricia. Believing he is Jack Ridder, she invites him to dinner the following Thursday. Barry returns to Southampton, deciding to stay a bit longer. Mr. Ridder, Sr., through his newspaper, the Globe, accuses Judge Hambridge of taking orders from Tammany Hall in a condemnation proceeding. Barry meets Peter Winslow, prominent attorney. Winslow tells Barry that Judge Hambridge had seen an accident in which a woman was killed by a taxicab. At home Barry finds the wife of the real Jack Ridder awaiting him. Her husband is in jail in New York, charged with the murder of Mike Kelly, Tammany boss.

Everything about the girl was a contradiction, the Duke thought. Hard, and yet soft, with her steely eyes, and her quivering lips. Her English was rather better than fairly good, and yet she could say, "He's a tough guy—that bird!" Beaded eye-lashes, and "a little boy." A chorus girl who believed in her husband, and came an hundred miles through the night to help him. A philosopher, the Duke, as we have seen, and he found himself musing, "Is anyone black or white? Aren't we all contradictions—kind of a dirty gray?"

"Go on," he said.

"Well, Jack was getting this fifty from the old man's lawyer—when I met him. We were playing West Palm Beach, and he followed me to Miami. Hadn't anything else to do. He was drinking all the time, and I knew he'd never quit until he had to. 'I'll marry you,' I told him, 'but not while you're loafing around on money you get from a guy that's ashamed of you. I want a home,' I said, 'and a husband I can respect. You get a job, and I'll marry you.'"

"Did he?"

"Yes, he did, and I married him. That week, it was a good job, too—night clerk in a big hotel at Palm Beach. After that, we let the fifty lay in the post office. Jack didn't want to, at first, but I said, 'We're going to make Jay Rogers mean something, and then we're going back and talk turkey to the old man.' We had a swell little home, and the kid came, and he's swell, too. And then, all at once, the boom busted right in our face, and the hotel closed, and we beat it back to New York. Say, what am I telling you this for?"

"Go on."

"Well, the next chapter's the same old story. No money. No job. Tramping the streets, looking for work. Know what that's like?"

"I invented it," said the Duke.

"Well, then, you know. Things kept happening. The boy got sick, and the people we rented the room from threatened to put us out, and I guess Jack couldn't stand it. So he went to see his mother—without telling me. He didn't tell her about me, either."

"The old lady gave him a hundred bucks, and invited him down here. I don't know what else happened, because I was so mad he didn't dare tell me. Proud? Well, partly, but I guess the truth is I was scared they'd separate us. Anyway, I made him send the money back. 'What're we going to do?' he said. 'Let the kid starve? I can't get work.' 'No,' I answered, 'but maybe I can. I'm a good hoover, if I do say it myself, and there's worse-looking girls in a lot of shows.'"

"Well, there wasn't an Aborn show in town. Or any other regular show that wanted me. So last Monday I landed in a joint, called The Coconut Bar. One of those places where you get a ten-course dinner and a revue for two dollars, and both of 'em rotten. Salad without dressing, and you don't care because the show girls are the same way. Tough spot—The Coconut Bar—but I wasn't choosy last Monday."

"So, then, Jack was mad."

"Plenty. He'd been promised a place as elevator man in Brooklyn, but we couldn't wait for that. You can be as straight in a cabaret as you can in a convent, if you want to do. Oh, well—last night, Mike Kelly came in. About eight o'clock. With two strong-arm guys. I knew him right away, because he was five weeks at the hotel where Jack worked in Palm Beach. And he sat down, and sent for the boss—Luis Morano, the boss is—and they had a stiff pow-wow. Morano was sore all through when he came back where the dressing rooms are. And then we swung into a number, called 'Tickle Me.' The girls go up to the men, in that number, and paw 'em a good deal. And, in the middle of this pawing, Kelly jumps up, and yells that I've tried to pick his pocket. I'd really just got to him, as another girl left, but he grabbed my arm, and shouted so you could have heard him in Harlem. Luis ran over, and the bouncer brought a cop, and a crowd gathered.

"Kelly'd been drinking a lot. 'You can't get away with that,' he kept yelling at Morano. 'I'll send this girl to the island, and you to the hot-spot! You watch me!'"

"I got nothing to do with it," Luis answered. 'I don't even know this girl. She only came Monday. Isn't that right, boys?'"

"Well, the end of it was that I walked out with the cop. I'd've been in the lock-up yet, only there was a decent young fellow on the desk at the station house. He let me go on my promise to return if I was wanted, there being no one there to sign the complaint."

While she talked, the Duke was thinking.

Astonishing things had happened, and went on happening. Were astonishing things always happening, everywhere? And did they come about as quietly as this; as much as though they were the commonplace of daily routine?

"You've walked into a pretty mess," the girl had said. But, after all it wasn't his mess. So far as he was concerned, the game was up.

He had made full and complete confession to this girl, without a moment's hesitation. Firstly, because the game was up, anyway, and, secondly, because it had seemed the right moment for laying cards on the table. He had asked to see her hand, and he couldn't expect to do that without showing his own. Without inspiring her confidence.

Why did he want to inspire her confidence? What was her story to him? Why should he care what happened to a woman he had never seen—in Bad Nauheim? But, damn it, he had seen her! He had seen into her mind and heart, which is a good deal more than looking at a face, or a black satin dress. Her life would be over with this. And the old man's. "The doctor says any shock might prove serious. One false step on your part, if he knew, would end everything forever. And he would know. Ill as he is, he still has his newspaper sent him, and he still reads every word."

The Duke felt sorry for these young people, too—for that foolish young husband who "wouldn't hurt a fly," and for this painted, hard-soft young wife and mother, who had wanted a home and a man she could respect.

Patricia? Well, that hurt. He had known it would. He had known, from that first day, that he cared a lot for this girl who needed a spanking, but he had known, too, that his caring wasn't going to come to anything. Even if his luck had held, you couldn't marry a girl like that, and then have her find out that you were "a bum." An imposter. It didn't matter now. What mattered now was whether this boy had killed Mike Kelly. And, if he hadn't, whether it was "going to make much difference"—with all the Boss' cohorts arrayed against him. And, anyway, how the whole business was to be kept—for a while, at least—from the woman who was "counting the days" to his letter at Nauheim.

"You've got your nerve," Peggy O'Day had said. "Well, that's what we need now." And, as he listened, Barry was more and more compelled to agree with her.

"We got home around half past ten o'clock," the girl had been saying, "and Jack was wild when he saw the cop, and heard the story. 'I'll be back for you tomorrow,' the cop said, 'and you'd better be here. This department takes its orders from Mike Kelly, and don't you forget that.'"

"I'm going to see Mike Kelly," Jack says. 'I knew him pretty well in Palm Beach. And I know where he lives. I'll be back here by midnight.'"

"He was—just as the clock was striking. I remember that, because I thought of a line from a burlesque of an old play I was in once. 'The hour has struck, and I am here.' Jack was all-a-tremble. 'The son of a sea-cook!' he says. 'The dirty skunk! I'll get that guy some day!'"

"Wouldn't he see you?" I asked.

"Sure, he saw me," Jack said. 'The butler brought me right in—a Jap, or a Filipino, or something. Kelly'd been drinking, and he was drinking more—in the dining room. He came in to me, in the drawing room, though, and shut the doors behind him. The Jap—or the Filipino, came in after, with a bottle of Scotch whiskey, and two glasses, and Mike kept on drinking. I had one with him. He was pleasant enough to start with. The telephone rang in the hall, and he apologized for going out to answer it. When he came back, 'You'll have to make it snappy,' he says. 'I've got an important conference here in a few minutes.'"

"So then I told him about you, and he went nutty."

"She's a damned little thief!" he yelled.

"She's my wife," I answered.

"Your wife!" he said, "Yes, and I guess anybody's wife that wants her!"

"Don't say that," I asked him.

"I'll say anything I damn please!"

he shouted. "Who the hell are you, telling me what to say? A guy living off a girl at Spanish Luis Morano's! Well, I don't give a damn who you live off, but when Luis sics 'em on to lifting stuff out of my pocket, they got the wrong bird! This dame's going to jail tomorrow, and I'm going to headquarters myself to be sure she does go! Now, get out!" he says.

"Well, of course, Jack loses his temper. They yelled at each other a few minutes, and then Jack says he calmed down. 'Listen,' he says, as quietly as I'm talking now. 'I don't amount to much, and I guess I know it as well as you do. But you let up on my wife, or I'll never let up on you as long as I live—so help me!'"

"And, with that, he flounces out of the house."

"Did you bang the door?" I asked, trying to make him laugh.

"I banged both of 'em," he answered. 'The door from the drawing room into the hall, and the front door. I mean what I said, too. If you're arrested tomorrow—'"

She paused for a moment, and slumped back into her chair, as though completely exhausted.

"You'll find the rest in the paper," she concluded. "The cops picked him up about three o'clock this afternoon. He thought they'd come for me, first, and he said a few things about Kelly that aren't going to help much. I don't know yet why they didn't pick me up, too. Anyway, when they'd gone, I did a whole lot of thinking. And I decided this wasn't a good minute for pride, or anything. 'If they're going to separate us,' I said, 'why, they're going to, and that's that.' So I took a chance, and the first train I could get after I'd found somebody to look after the boy. When the butler told me Mr. Ridder'd be home around midnight, I figured my luck had changed. Of course, I never thought of a fake Ridder."

There was no ill-will in her tone; only a faint amusement, succeeded, almost immediately, by desperate earnestness.

"Well, that's my story," she said. "God only knows why I told you. I came out here to tell it, because I didn't think even that tough old bird would want to see his boy sent up for murder. Now—what do we do? Cable? I haven't got money enough; have you? I haven't got a lawyer, or a dollar to hire one. I haven't got a relative that I know about, or a friend in the world. Just a sick kid at home, and a fellow I'm kind of strong for locked up in the Tombs." She had asked, "What do we do?"

"I haven't got money enough; have you?" Taken him into partnership; that's what she had. Into one of those natural, inevitable partnerships of people who have no one to whom they have the right to turn; the kinship of the poor, and despised, and out-cast.

"I know a great lawyer," said the Duke. "A great criminal lawyer. I met him tonight. A fellow named Winslow."

"Not Peter Winslow?"

The Duke nodded.

"Yes, he's great enough, but he'd never take my case."

"He might take mine," the Duke mused, aloud. "We struck up quite a friendship. He offered to get me a job. Of course, that's all off, because—"

"I Know a Great Lawyer," Said the Duke.

"Because why?"

"Because he isn't going to do anything for me when he finds I'm a fake. Nobody is, when they know I'm not John Clarke Ridder, Jr."

The Duke rose, slowly, and walked across the room.

He was thinking hard.

"Nobody is," he repeated, still more slowly, as he returned to the chair in which was sitting the wife of the real "Jack" Ridder. "But why should they find out now?"

The girl looked at him, wide-eyed.

"I don't get you."

"It's easy," he answered, still slowly, and very deliberately. "People don't do anything for fakes, or cast-offs accused of murder. They won't do anything for the real John Ridder, because he's broke and in disgrace. But they might do a lot for the fake John Ridder—if they didn't know he was a fake."

"I guess I'm dumb," Peggy said, "but still I don't get you."

"Listen."

He resumed his seat in the small chair opposite her.

"You came out to get old John Clarke to help you."

"Yes."

"And he wasn't here."

"No."

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

(By Rev. Miles Dawson)

Germany made a great mistake in the Jewish persecution. Since that began, she has step by step fallen backward. Reports coming from that country today are both good and evil, but it appears to me that pandemonium is breaking out. In a very recent report, two Christian ministers were persecuted for failure to support the state in the recent election. The report does not make it clear just where the ministers were in the wrong, except that one failed to vote, and the other would not condescend to the use of the church building on the eve of the election. Because the first failed to vote, he was cast out of the city. Because the other refused his building for political purposes, he was dragged through the streets, and into the city prison. But Germany is not to blame. She is under a leader who is an imitator, one who is seeking the limelight of the world. Some day, he will have to lay down his earthly labors, and then, the message of Christ and His Church will continue to be preached in Germany and throughout the world.
